Context of 'Living Space'

• Imtiaz Dharker's knowledge of Mumbai is evident in this poem.
• Imtiaz Dharker is a contemporary poet who was born in Pakistan and grew up in Scotland. She has written five collections of poetry and often deals with themes of identity, the role of women in contemporary society and the search for meaning. She draws on her multi-cultural experience in her work.
• She is also a film director and has scripted a number of documentaries in India, supporting work with women and children. Dharker's intimate knowledge of Mumbai is evident in this poem. She works to raise awareness of issues in other countries.
Living Space

There are just not enough straight lines. That is the problem. nothing is flat or parallel. Beams balance crookedly on supports thrust off the vertical. nails clutch at open seams. the whole structure leans dangerously towards the miraculous.
Into this rough frame, someone has squeezed a living space.
and even dared to place these eggs in a wire basket, fragile curves of white hung out over the dark edge of a slanted universe, gathering the light into themselves, as if they were the bright, thin walls of faith.

<tr>
<td>2. There is a contrast between dark and light with the bright image of the curved smooth eggs standing out against the darkness of the 'slanted universe'.</td>
<td>2. Dharker uses enjambment throughout this poem with lines spilling over into one another. This reflects the way the slum structures lean over and on top of each other.</td>
